

MEMORANDUM

AGENDA ITEM #15a

DATE:	FEBRUARY 1, 2010
TO:	COUNCIL MEMBERS

FROM: STAFF

SUBJECT: 2010 CENSUS – IT'S IN OUR HANDS

April 1, 2010, is Census Day. The U.S. Census Bureau is required by the Constitution to conduct a count of the resident population in all 50 states, Washington DC, Puerto Rico and all other U.S. territories. This includes people of all ages, races and ethnic groups, both citizens and non-citizens. The Census count has occurred every ten years since 1790. The last decennial census was conducted in 2000. The 2010 Census mission is to count every person residing in the United States, to count them once and count them in the right place. The results of the 2010 Census count will be delivered to the President of the United States in December 2010.

For the first time since 1940, when the "long form" was introduced to collect more detailed data from a sample of the population, this year's census will be collected by a "short" form made up of 10 questions. The Census questionnaire will be delivered to every household in the U.S. and Puerto Rico in March. The American Community Survey, a continuous sample of almost 250,000 households each month, which began in 2005, now collects the detailed socio-economic characteristics of the population, and will be conducted in parallel to the decennial census.

The primary purpose of the decennial census count is to serve as the basis for apportionment. In the aftermath of the 2000 Census, Florida gained 2 additional seats in the House of Representatives. Continued growth during the past decade means that Florida has a chance to further increase its share of the 435 seats if a complete count is achieved. In addition, more than $400 billion per year in federal and state funding is allocated to communities based on census data.

Ensuring a complete count is essential, but it represents a significant challenge in a region like South Florida as a result of its growth, its geography and the composition of the population. South Florida includes dense urban concentrations along the eastern portions of Broward County and Miami-Dade County, which have grown rapidly in the last decade, with new residential areas springing up every year. The Florida Keys have a development pattern that is unique due to the large seasonal population. The sparsely-populated western portions of the two largest counties, and mainland Monroe County, have other challenges. With one-third of the population being foreign-born, the diversity of languages and cultures will make it necessary to undertake a major outreach effort to engage the residents of the region and encourage them to respond to the Census and be counted.

Outreach efforts will focus on ensuring the highest possible initial response by the population returning the Census questionnaire that will arrive by mail. Households that do not return the questionnaire by mail will be visited through door-to-door follow-up. Final mail response rates in South Florida for the 2000 Census were below the national average of 67%: Monroe (51%), Miami-Dade (65%), Broward (63%), Florida (63%).

2010 Census forms will be available in Spanish, Chinese, Russian, Korean and Vietnamese. In addition, language assistance guides will be available in 59 languages, including Haitian-Creole and Portuguese. A sample copy of the questionnaire in English is attached to this agenda item.

The Census Bureau has begun recruiting for the 2010 Census, and interested individuals are encouraged to seek more information at 2010.census.gov/2010censusjobs/. An important outreach strategy in South Florida will be to encourage people who live in each community, who speak the language and understand the culture, to take jobs with the Census Bureau for the post-census follow-up activities. The Census Bureau guarantees the confidentiality of data collected in the Census for 72 years.

Local efforts are well underway that concentrate on achieving a complete count. Broward County was among the first to establish a Complete Count Committee, chaired by Commissioner Ilene Lieberman (www.broward.org/census2010/). Mayor Alvarez established the Miami-Dade County Complete Count Committee, co-chaired by Shirley Gibson, Mayor of the City of Miami Gardens, and Perla Tabares Hantman, Vice Chair of the Miami-Dade County School Board (www.miamidade.gov/census2010/).

Council staff will coordinate with the complete count efforts of all local jurisdictions in the region as well as with the State of Florida and Census Bureau complete count efforts.
